Conservation, Sustainability & Ethics

Safari Adventures actively contributes to and supports the conservation and restoration of Africa's fauna and flora. We believe in a high-quality low-impact ecotourism model that promotes a self-sustainable conservation-focused economy. Ecotourism creates jobs and directly benefits our local communities. Our goal is to uplift the local communities surrounding our nature reserves, and in turn inspire them to conserve their own environment and natural heritage.

Your safari will directly and indirectly contribute to the conservation of wildlife and wilderness areas, preserving biodiversity in Africa. When you come on a journey with us you contribute not only to the wildlife and wilderness areas you visit, but you will also make a difference in many peoples lives.

"Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better."

African Seasons

Wildlife sightings are usually best during the drier winter months, but each season has its own unique charm.

Summer is full of opportunities to witness spectacular sunsets and dramatic skies with afternoon thundershowers, while winter is best known for yellow and orange fire skies, filtered by dust.

Summer: Southern Africa is predominantly a summer rainfall area with the southwestern Cape of South Africa being the exception. Summer is the green season and time of abundance with birds, newborn animals and predators scattered all over. Clear, bright daylight is rounded off by spectacular colourful sunsets. Middays are usually warm and an ideal time to siesta under the air-conditioning while big clouds build up to create dramatic electrical afternoon thunderstorms.

Fall: April and May have the most moderate temperatures of the year. Some greenery remains from the summer rains, and it is then later absorbed by the pale dry wintertime. Fall is known for beautiful fresh mornings, moderate days, and cool evenings.

Winter: Winter is the dry season where limited availability of water results in high game densities around waterholes and wetlands. Visibility for animal sighting and photography is ideal as most of the leaves start to fall in the woodland areas. Winter mornings are colder but it heats up quickly during mid morning to mild day time temperatures.

Spring: Cool and crisp mornings that quickly warm up can be expected during the Spring. By the late afternoon clouds start to roll in holding the promise of rain to quench the winter thirst of land and animal.

"I never knew of a morning in Africa when I woke up that I was not happy."
